| | O49C | Phoenix Oolong Mi Lan Nong Xiang 2021 No.1 | 鳳凰單叢 蜜蘭香 濃香 2024 No.1 | Guangdong, China | The most popular Phoenix Oolong that gives an identical fruity note like Lychee or Mango flavor. It has undergone double firing that makes flavor more matured and complex. It is an entry tea for tea enthusiasts who look for deep fermented oolong with fruity character. |  | 15 | 1,400 | 40 | 3,500 | 120 | 10,200 | 360 | 25,200 |
| | O103C | Phoenix Oolong Mi Lan Nong Xiang 2021 No.2 | 鳳凰單叢 蜜蘭香 濃香 2021 No.2 | Guangdong, China | This tea is with triple roasting, which is popular style in the Chaozhou city in China. Continuous roasting results in uneven moisture distribution, so the tea is roasted once immediately after processing, followed by additional roasting every few months. As a result, the liqour color of the tea will be a dark orange color, and the finish will be a strong scent like dried fruit. Repeated roasting allows the tea leaves to mature and develop fruity aromas such as raspberry and lychee. |  | 15 | 1,400 | 40 | 3,500 | 120 | 10,200 | 360 | 25,200 |
| | O127C | Phoenix Oolong Mi Lan Nong Xiang 2021 No.3 | 鳳凰單叢 蜜蘭香 濃香 2021 No.3 | Guangdong, China | No.3 is a tea that has been roasted three times to give it a thick aroma. Normally, if the purchase cost goes down, the quality will go down in proportion to it, but this product shows the uniqueness of honey orchid incense. Of course, in terms of quality, No.1 and No.2 are superior, but I think the quality is sufficient for everyday tea. It has a rich lychee scent, a lingering finish and a strong aftertaste, making it a great value tea. |  | 15 | 1,000 | 40 | 2,400 | 120 | 7,000 | 360 | 17,300 |

| O30C | Phoenix Oolong Shui Xiang Nong Xiang 2021 | 鳳凰老欖水仙 濃香 2021 | Guangdong, China | This Shui Xiang is made from the old tea trees that are over 80 years old, which are made by seedlings. The main feature of Shui Xiang is the very long finishing/aftertaste that cannot be obtained with a Dancong tea in the same price range. This tea is baked 4 times with charcoal fire. Four times of baking is not done in a short period of time, but after each baking, it is left to rest for several months to redistribute the moisture, and it takes one year to finish. As a result of the time-consuming roasting, this product has a unique sweet scent reminiscent of dried fruits, caramel and jujube. The charcoal baked tea is commonly seen in Chinese and Taiwanese tea, but it is very important to bake it at lower temperature for long time so that it does not burn. |  | 15 | 1,100 | 40 | 2,700 | 120 | 7,800 | 360 | 19,440 |
| O32C | Phoenix Oolong Zhi Lan Xiang 2021 | 鳳凰芝蘭香半叢 2021 | Guangdong, China | Phoenix Zu Lan Xiang is classified in one of the flavor type in 10 famous flavor in Phoenix. This product is finished with a 3 times baking, and is a so-called non-xiang (thick flavor) type tea. By slowly heating it at a low, non-burning temperature, it brings out the sweet aroma like dried-fruits. As the baking progresses, the aroma changes from floral to fruity to dried fruit to a more mature aroma. This product also has a strong scent of cherries, dried prunes, and dried raspberries in addition to the scent of flowers such as magnolia, honeysuckle, and daffodils. |  | 15 | 1,100 | 40 | 2,700 | 120 | 7,800 | 360 | 19,440 |
| O126C | Phoenix Oolong Shi Hua Xiang 2021 | 鳳凰柿花香半叢 2021 | Guangdong, China | This tea is baked 3 times with charcoal heat. Thanks to the multiple number of baking at lower temperature, it has floral, fruit and dried fruit scents. The flavor of this tea has the similarity with the flavor of Ye Lai Xiang or Zu Lan Xiang. In addition to scents like magnolia, daffodils and lilies, it has the notes of baked apples, pears and dried berries. Although the cost of this tea is lower among the Phoenix oolong, it has quite strong flavor. |  | 15 | 1,200 | 40 | 2,800 | 120 | 8,100 | 360 | 20,160 |

| | | Da Xue Shan Wild Tea Cake 2024 | 大雪山野生茶 餅茶 2024 | Yunnan, China | This tea was produced in 2024 while we were actively involved in Yunnan, managing each step of the process. We used the same leaves as the previously released loose Da Xue Shan Wild Tea and had it compressed into cake form. We directly took part in the pan-frying process, ensuring it was done at the ideal temperature range. The tea has a long aftertaste and a full-bodied character, with a refreshing, fruity aroma reminiscent of grapes, apples, and young tree bark. With further oxygen-free aging, we also expect honey-like and raisin-like aromas to develop. |  | 50 | 3,000 | 200 | 11,500 | | | 1,000 | 46,000 | | | | | |
